Only GHI - Sold Homes Qualify In New Resale Financing Plan

A short term program to finance the resale of members' homes was adopted by the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. Board at a special meeting last Thursday night. After discussing the alternative plans reported in the last issue of the NEWS REVIEW, the Board accepted almost in toto the recommendations made by the Finance Committee, chaired by Director Lloyd Moore.

The plan provides that the financing operations will be handled directly by GHI through its present staff and facilities. The manager was made responsible for approving all loans, although he can delegate this responsibility to the Comptroller. To start the operation, the Board set aside for immediate use the $133,000 realized from the sale of the vacant land. It is also contemplated that possibly another $150,000 may be taken from reserve funds to be used in the financing program.

Most controversial feature of the financing program is its restriction to those resales made by the GHI office only. Charles Cormack, member of the finance committee which had recommended the plan, had dissented on this point and voiced his objections to the Board. Director Harry Zubkoff also argued to lift this limitation, despite the fact that the Board had been assured of its legality. The measure was passed, however, on the grounds that it would stimulate resales by the GHI office and would encourage prospective sellers to list their homes with GHI.

Under the terms of the plan, buyers would be required to make at least a 20% down payment. Maximum loans would be 80% of the cash requirement. Interest would be computed on a graduated scale, depending on the size of the down payment. With a down payment of 20 to 29% of the cash requirement, the interest would be 5%; from 30 to 39% it would be 4 1/2%; from 40% and over it would be 4%.

All loans would be paid back on the installment plan, with interest compounded annually. Terms of the loans would be up to five years on frame homes and up to 10 years on brick homes, with the manager making the final decision as to the amount and term of each loan.

Center Due For Uplift, New Owner Tells Council

By VIRGINIA BEAUCHAMP

"Enthusiastic," was the word one city official present at Monday night's council meeting used to describe the attitude of William Cohen, new owner of the commercial center. Cohen was presenting his plans for remodeling the buildings in his new acquisition and for updating the appearance of the entire center area.

Most of Paving Done for Year

With the onset of autumn, the city's work in paving and patching streets will be discontinued. The only roads project now planned is to convert a few grassy shoulders into paved shoulders for parking. Actually, only the stone base and gravel cover will be laid down now. In the spring a final asphalt surface will be added.

Only a very few areas around the city will be affected. These are all shoulders which have been regularly used for parking purposes, even though they were not paved. Most of these have become mud holes through repeated use by automobiles.

The city is already looking ahead to possible problems caused by heavy snowfalls. It will be better equipped this winter, with the recent purchase of a jeep, which can be fitted with a snowplow blade. With this vehicle, maintenance workers should be able to get into the courts and other narrow spaces for snow removal.

$1200 in Festival Funds Ready for Distribution

The Festival Committee of the 1961 Greenbelt Labor Day Festival is now ready to distribute $1200 to any and all youth organizations who have need of funds to assist their groups in the coming year.

According to the president of the committee, Fred H. Birdseye, any youth group wishing to share in these funds must pick up an application blank from the Suburban Trust Bank, complete this form entirely and return it to Henry Brautigam at the bank no later than November 21.

The money will be prorated according to the need, and the decision of the committee will be final.

Poor Deliveries

The News Review regrets the lack of adequate deliveries to the 35 through the 43 courts on Ridge Road, the opposite courts on Ridge and the Eastway courts during recent weeks. The regular delivery boy, Billy Dobbin, who has served these courts faithfully for so long, has been unable to make deliveries for the past five weeks due to a series of illnesses. The use of inexperienced substitute delivery boys has caused the delivery problem. Billy hopes to be back on the job this week.

News Review Meeting

The annual membership meeting of the Greenbelt Co-operative Publishing Association, Inc., publishers of the News Review, will be held this Sunday, October 29, at 8:30 p.m. at the home of the Skolniks, 2-E Northway. All present and past staff members of the newspaper are asked to attend. Featuring the meeting will be the election of the 5-man governing body for 1961-62.

Cohen particularly enlisted the concern of council, the planning board, and citizens of Greenbelt into improving the mall at the shopping plaza. He has offered to donate a prize—a federal savings bond—to be used in a contest which he hoped the city might sponsor for designs to increase the attractiveness of the mall.

At the same time Cohen discussed with council certain plans which he has to remodel his own buildings. An architect is now at work, he said, on plans to improve the appearance of the store fronts. Consideration is being given, he said, to the possibility of removing the white paint and returning to the original red brick. The white painted surfaces are so easily marred, he noted, leading to a grubby, dingy effect in very little time.

Improvements in the lighting of the exteriors is also being planned. Cohen stated that an electrical contractor is now designing more effective lighting for the covered walkways along the mall.

Speaking to his major tenant, the city of Greenbelt, which maintains considerable office space in one of the buildings, Cohen announced his willingness to remodel and improve their quarters, if he could at the same time be given some justification—either through higher rental fees or a longer lease—for the additional expense. He contemplated such extensive changes as for example, removing partitions to provide a larger council chamber.

Police News

Police received a report of larceny of a money bag from the Co-op store on Friday. The discovery was made about noon on that day and the bag could not be found. There was no evidence of a breaking and entering the previous night. The money bag held about $620, with about $100 in cash and the rest in checks.

An auto, being driven out of the exit from the American Legion Post Home, collided with an auto which was going north on Rt. 193. Damage to the first car was estimated at $150 and the car that was hit had an estimated damage of $50. This accident occurred after 11:30 p.m. Tuesday evening.

On Thursday, Officer C. Lee Byrd noticed a car which had been parked in the same place for several days. Upon checking the license number, it was discovered that this was a stolen vehicle.

Another stolen vehicle was recovered before the auto had been placed on the look-out list. Officer Marshall (Bud) Zoellner impounded a car which had been parked on the roadway near the intersection of Edmonston and Crescent Rds. This vehicle had expired temporary tags on it. Officially, this car was reported found before it was reported lost.

Bike Registration

Bicycle registration will take place at Center School on Friday, November 3rd from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Registration at other schools will be announced at a later date.

JCC MEETING

The Jewish Community Center of Prince Georges County will hold a membership meeting on Saturday, October 28 at 8:30 p.m.

Collecting for UNICEF

This Sunday evening between the hours of 7 and 9 p.m. Greenbelt youngsters will again visit all homes in the community to collect for the annual Halloween UNICEF "Trick or Treat" program. This has become a tradition in the community where local householders welcome the young collectors who have no intention of playing any tricks if no contributions are made. Actually, it is difficult to imagine anyone turning them down since anything from a penny on up is acceptable.

It is amazing but true that, according to UNICEF officials, a single penny can mean the vaccine to protect a child abroad from tuberculosis. Let us consider what a slightly more generous donation will buy. A nickel can supply penicillin to cure a child of yaws, a cripply, highly contagious tropical disease. A dime can buy enough DDT to protect a child from the blindness of trachoma.

The youngsters who make the rounds are eager and happy to participate because they understand that the money they collect will help other children just like them in other parts of the world -- except that these other children may not have quite enough to eat or have no parents to take care of them. For our children the UNICEF collection is an important mission. It is up to us to see that it is accomplished by having our money ready to drop into the little containers with the UNICEF band attached.

Misgivings Expressed

To The Editor:

The subject of The Housing Project For The Elderly has brought misgivings to my mind as to the ability of the members the people have elected to the board. The inability to see that the members at the annual meeting did not want any part of the proposed project for the simple reason of the controls that The Housing and Home Finance Agency would attach to the loan. The members, as I see it, want the Board to investigate the qualifications of prospective residents. There are many criticisms as to structure, location etc. that could be brought to the Board's attention. But I think that I speak for some others when I say there are other projects that will answer the question of having a place for THE ELDERLY TO LIVE.

This, however, is only one instance where the Board members have shown lack of sound judgement. A case in point is the attempt to tell members they should not make a profit when selling their house. Is there any one who has any thing to sell that does not attempt to get what he can for the article? Why does the Board say they should not make a profit? It is up to the purchaser if he wishes to buy, and the finance agency if the buyer is sound risk. I also question the wisdom of there being a Real Estate agency in conjunction with G.H.I. It seems that the only benefit is for the seller to get a sale at a less commission than at any other Realtor. This does not benefit a member, but it does benefit an exmember.

Why do not the Board Members stop trying to be financiers and get down to the business of directing the affairs of G.H.I.? Why not look into the condition of overcrowding and try to relieve this situation? There is a hard and fast rule about cutting trees, when some expert advice may tell that the elimination of some of the Jack Pine would allow some of the more desirable hard trees to mature.

In fact why doesn't the Board do away with so many advisory committees and get down to representing the people who elected them to do just that?

Joseph C. Cherry,

Behind Locked Doors

By RITA FISHER

I returned to my friends at Ward CT-6 in St. Elizabeth's Hospital after an absence of three months and was warmly greeted by the patients who were still living behind the locked doors. A number of things kept me from going on the monthly visits with the ever faithful group of women who always go the third Wednesday of the month - their day to visit the hospital where they hold Bingo games which enable the patients to win prizes of clothing, cosmetics and jewelry. In the three years that I have been going with the other Greenbelt women, I have gone faithfully except for the month that I had to stay in P. G. hospital myself when my last child was born.

It was strange to see many new faces mingled in with the faces we know so well by now. There are always those that are new to the ward and some who are transferred because they have improved, become physically ill or have become worse. Our ladies seem to range from those few who seem so rational that we wonder why they must be confined to a locked ward to those who seem helplessly lost, sitting with hunched over shoulders and never speaking.

One of the really shining lights of the party was the presence of Rev. Lyle Harper, minister of the Methodist Church in Greenbelt. I watched the women eagerly show him the prizes they had won and his smiling interest in every one who showed him anything. Perhaps it was the presence of a man whom they all felt they could say something to, but I'm sure his personality reflected a warmth they could feel.

After all the prizes were won, we started to have some group singing so that the interval would pass which allowed the women to set up the refreshments. I must confess that I used to enjoy leading the women in singing but since last November, I have been retired from singing. I strained my vocal chords at that time and developed what is known as a Singer's Node and I have been unable to constrain my voice enough to heal properly.

Rev. Harper did a splendid job as song leader. He asked the ladies to name something to sing and the choices were quite varied going from hymns such as "Jesus Loves Me" to old stand-by American songs like "Down By The Old Mill Stream." I started to walk around purposely to look at the faces of the women while the singing was going on and the contented smiles were a joy to see.

Someone told me that one of the new patients had a good voice and liked to sing. I went and asked her and she agreed to do so. She sang well enough and later I went over and started to talk with her. She was a native of the Virgin Islands and told me a long story concerning a boy who she had not been allowed to marry and how her step-father did not like her. All this I listened to with interest (and a grain of salt) but she had such a wonderful sparkle to her eyes and her voice that I enjoyed the conversation very much.

I remember greeting some of the old friends there. Miss S. who had been so much like a robot who had to be led around when we first met her. She was sitting in a chair before we started Bingo and I went over to greet her. She raised her head and half-smiled, which is quite an accomplishment considering the lack of expression usually on her face.

I also went over to Miss G. who I found seated at a table waiting for the game to begin. I could hear her small weak voice making some sound but could not understand what she said. This is our supposedly deaf friend. She played Bingo with her back to the caller and it seemed that she was aware of the numbers called because she did not always have to be prompt-

Musical Talent

Three Greenbelters were among six High Point students who received recognition in music when they were selected as members of the State Chorus and State Orchestra which performed for the State Teachers Meeting in Baltimore last week.

Marcus Nusinov, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nusinov of So-C Ridge, was a member of the orchestra.

Donna Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Evans of 16-V Ridge, and Jim Lushine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lushine of 3-C Gardenway were members of the All-State Chorus.

ed when a called number appeared on her card.

I still am thankful to be able to make these visits to the hospital. The ladies seem so happy to see us each month and the nurses tell us how these women look forward to the visits and get themselves and the room all prettied up.

Mrs. Nixon, 474 - 6059, who is in charge of our group, informs me that she is in need of women's clothing to be used as prizes for Bingo. If you could see how they inspect the clothing and hold the garments up to see if they will fit, perhaps you would look for something to contribute. And we need costume jewelry, including bracelets and even some old jewelry boxes for the women to keep their trinkets in. Everything these women possess is kept for them in a large locked room by the nurses so that their things have to be marked. This is to prevent those who cannot control themselves from picking up whatever they see. I noticed that even their toothbrushes were hanging on a rack inside the locked door, each with the owner's name. Oh it makes me so thankful that I am only a visitor in a place where people and things are kept behind locked doors.

 MATCHLESS SERVICE
 POTOMAC ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY

LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY . . . IN A TOTAL ELECTRIC

GOLD MEDALLION HOME

How many baths, showers, laundry or dish loads can you handle at your house before the hot water "cools off?" With a new Quick Recovery Flameless Electric Water Heater, you can use hot water all day long and still have plenty. Your hot water is replaced just about as fast as you use it. Heat stays inside the tank, so the entire outside stays cool and safe to touch. No flue or vent is needed, so you can tuck it in a closet, or any available space close to where the hot water is used. Some are table-top models, which fit in flush with kitchen counters. Economical to operate, too, thanks to PEPCO's low household rates. Visit your appliance dealer soon and choose the size and shape that suits you best.
